

HELD UP BANK OFFICER, DEMANDED $800, BUT HE GOT ONLY $60

Counting "One, Two, Three,"
Robber With Gun Forced Delivery of Cash.

SEABOARD, Mass., April 28.—A man armed with a revolver and wearing a mask over the lower half of his face entered the Seaboard Cooperative Bank today, held up John A. Teague, the treasurer, and, obtaining the contents of the cash drawer, about $80, escaped. Teague and his assistant, Miss Maria H. Osgood, were the only persons in the bank at the time, which is on the second floor of a business block in the center of the business district, when the man appeared. Pointing his gun through the window in the iron grating, he said: "Give up $800 quick."

Teague attempted to parley and the visitor began to count: "One, two, three." This was enough for the treasurer, who pulled open the cash drawer, meanwhile explaining that its contents represented all the cash that he could hand over in a hurry.

The robber gathered up the paper money and coin and bolted through the door.

$45,000,000 OF STOCK TO BE SOLD BY CITY.
Will Bear Four and a Half Per Cent.
Interest and Will Be Sold
May 20.

An issuance of $45,000,000 in corporate stock of the city was authorized by the Finance Commission, which held a special meeting in the office of the mayor today. The proceeds of the sale of the bonds will be used to redeem corporate stock notes issued under the new law, which enables their sale by the Comptroller at such times as money is needed. The sale of the stock authorized today takes place May 20.

"Attention should be called to the fact," said the Comptroller, "that it is now some years since the city has offered to the public bonds bearing so attractive an income rate, 4 1/2 per cent. I know of several very large investors who have been waiting for this sale. The purchase of $5,000,000 of outstanding bonds for immediate sinking fund purposes was also authorized at the meeting today."

Of the authorizations, $26,000,000 is for general purposes and $20,000,000 for water supply.

MAYOR URGES ALDERMEN TO PASS NEW MOVIE LAW.

Sends for Members of Board and Asks for Immediate Action.

Mayor Gaynor sent for a number of Aldermen to-day and had a heart-to-heart talk with them regarding the proposed moving picture ordinance, which was "killed" by a parliamentary trick worked on the fusion members by the Tammany City Fathers. The Mayor stated that he desired, in the public interest, that an ordinance be adopted and said something in praise of the so-called Folks measure, which in reality was the work of the Mayor's Own Commission, appointed by him to draft a measure affording safety in the construction of moving picture houses and regulations contemplating moral shows.

The Mayor did not send for Alderman Frank L. Dowling, the Tammany leader of the board, who contrived the parliamentary tactic by which the Folks ordinance and the other suggested ordinances were sidetracked. Alderman Dowling's comment when he heard of the Mayor's action today was: "Well, the Executive of the nation has seen fit to lift the rod over the heads of members of the House; the Executive of the State has quarreled with the legislature; and now the Executive of the city is having heart to heart talks with the city legislators. We will adopt some character of moving picture ordinance, but I submit that the one I suggested to take the place of the Folks ordinance is really the best. My ordinance cuts out all galleries and affords the best of safety."

FAMOUS KEENE HORSES BURNED TO DEATH IN INCENDIARY FIRE

Fifteen Brood Mares, Each
With a Foal, Perish at Kingston Farm.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 28.—Fifteen mares of the finest English and American thoroughbred blood, each with a foal by her side by the famous James R. Keene stallions Peter Pan, Hippodrome, Sweep, Detour, Voter, Diagonal and Ben Brush, were burned to death this morning at the Kingston stud stock farm of the late James R. Keene and the late Major Foxhall A. Daingerfield. The newly erected barn where the mares were quartered was burned by incendiaries. With the exception of Flying Ship and her foal, who were the property of E. F. Clay of Bourbon County, all the mares belonged to the estate of James R. Keene and were in the care of Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield, who has had active charge of the Keene breeding establishment since the death of her father, Col. Algernon Daingerfield.

The fire was discovered at 1:30, when a night watchman, who had made his hourly inspection of the stables less than an hour before, heard wild neighing horses. Looking in the direction of the barn he saw flames. Summoning Miss Daingerfield, they went to the barn, only to find it nearly burned to the ground with every horse in it with the exception of Dominance and Glovia, two mares by Domino and Imperius respectively, who had escaped with their foals and were uninjured.

Miss Daingerfield immediately telephoned to the city for bloodhounds, which were put on the trail, but the only scent found that seemed suspicious at all was declared more than twenty-four hours old. So far no trace whatever has been found of the incendiaries. The list of horses lost includes the finest race horse blood of England and America. The loss has not yet been estimated. Among the horses destroyed were the following:

Running Stream, by Domino—Dancing Water, with colt by Imp. Voter; Flower of the Forest, by The Com-mando—Skyvalle, with colt by Sweep; Inglewood, by Star Ruby—Optima, with filly by Hippodrome; Harpsichord, by Amphib—Atala 28, with filly by Peter Pan; Cassandra, by Horoscope—Seeress, with colt by Delhi; Half Crown, by Orlene—Lady Minton, with filly by Diagonal; Ladashine, by Ladash—Allum-ness, with filly by Diagonal; Gelsa, by Froquois—Trade Wind, with colt by Diagonal; Forbidden Fruit, by Adam—Citronella, with colt by Ultimatus; May-fair, by Ben Brush—Bonnie Gal, with colt by Hippodrome; Jessant, by Tadas Ori—Bend Or, with filly by Hippodrome; True Love, by Command—Citronella, with colt by Sweep; Pretty, by Ben Brush—Pretty Maiden, with colt by Superman.

GIRL HAS DENTIST HELD.

Accused Albert C. Roy of At-tack-ing Her in Office.

Albert C. Roy, forty-two years old, a dentist, of No. 158 Ninth avenue, was today held in $2,500 bail for examination Friday by Magistrate Herbert on a charge of attempted assault made by Martha Poulalion, nineteen years old, of No. 12 West Eleventh street. The girl charges the dentist attacked her yesterday in his office while he was treating her teeth.

In her affidavit the girl says there was a struggle in the office, during which she managed to reach the door and escape. She went to her mother, who took her to the home of Judge Swann of the Court of General Sessions, with whom she is acquainted, and on the advice of the Judge she complained to the police. The dentist was arrested last night.
